Forecast For West Midlands
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 1600 on Wednesday 06 Jan 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 1800 and 0600

Headline:
A cold night and day to come.

This Evening and Tonight:
Dry through the evening and night, with a little patchy cloud but plenty of long clear spells. This will lead to a widespread frost, patches of freezing fog, and potentially icy conditions. Light breeze throughout. Minimum temperature -5 deg C (23 deg F).

Thursday:
A frosty start with any fog slow to clear. A dry and bright afternoon for all with sunny spells, although clouding over from the north. Feeling cold. Maximum temperature 4 deg C (39 deg F).

Outlook for Friday to Sunday:
A few outbreaks of rain, snow, and sleet on Friday. Remaining dry through Saturday. Cold across these days with sunny spells, and overnight frosts. Turning cloudy and milder on Sunday.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.